*"Morning sun greets many banners
On its western track,*

Dear to us beyond all others

Waves the gold and black."

Foreword

A YEAR in Miami Beach High School—nine months of never-to-be-forgotten experiences with friends and teachers, we present to you in the pages ahead. As Seniors we offer our written and pictured record of the year which not even time can erase from our memories.

Our endeavors have been devoted to you—to giving you a true and honest reflection of Miami Beach High School. We present to you the culmination of a year's best efforts, the climax of six years' experiences—the 1940 Typhoon! We hope you like it.

Dedication

FAMILIAR to all of us in Miami Beach High School's Shakespearean authority and English teacher extraordinaire, that wizard of Webster, "Little Caesar" Roberts. Most familiar to the seniors is this diminutive dynamo who guides the grammatical and literary endeavors of all senior English pupils and upon whose competent shoulders rests the editorial sponsorship of the "Typhoon". For her knowing smile, keen observance of human nature, and ever sympathetic understanding, Miss Irene Roberts will long be loved and remembered by all of us.

We consider it an honor to dedicate this record to her.

In Appreciation

WE of the Typhoon staff wish to express our sincere appreciation to the Hi-Tone Photographers for their generous cooperation which made picture-taking a pleasure, and to Mr. J. C. McMillan, who gave so liberally of his time and efforts in photographing numerous school pictures—to both Mr. McMillan and the Hi-Tone Photographers much of the success of our book is due and we are grateful to them; to Jim Meyer, whose assistance in the photography department was indispensable; to Mrs. Ione Hill for her helpful advice in the literary department, and to Harriet Kohn, Beatrice Mellicker, Natalie Martin, Annilee Cantor, Seymour Cohen, and Frances Sonneborn for their voluntary assistance in the advertising department.

The Trustees

BEHIND every organization is a group of sincere, hard-working individuals—behind this school is such a group, the trustees. This guiding body, the board of trustees of Miami Beach High School, counts as its members Mr. Sidney H. Ellison, our principal; Mr. Robert Taylor, Mr. Van C. Kussrow, and Mr. Hugh S. Larrick. Supervising and overseeing the functions and inner-workings of our school, these men capably handle problems ranging from decisions of control and finance to individual entrance. Interested and enthusiastic supporters of all school activities are these men whose every effort is in the school and for the school one hundred per cent!

Our Friends and Advisers, the Deans

TWO of our finest and best-loved friends are Deans Ione Hill and Robert Wilson. Serving as right-hand assistants to the principal, these two teachers are, to a large extent, responsible for maintaining that ever-present friendly bond between teachers and pupils. Signing those familiar vari-colored passes composes only a small, visible portion of the daily duties of these two faculty members. Though infrequently free with their reprimands to deserving non-conformists, Deans Hill and Wilson are ever-ready to offer assistance to the troubled student. To these two friends we owe a measureless debt of gratitude for their sympathetic understanding in helping us solve life's many puzzling schemes.

Scenes in the Dean's Office

Well known to every student are the lines of boys and girls waiting their turns at the bureau of pass-signing.

Pass-collecting is a frequent objective of Perry Cohen's familiar corridor tours, and Natalie Irving has become synonymously associated with assisting the deans in all phases of work.

MRS. L. E. MARCUM, President

P. T. A.

WELL known to all of the student body is the organization of parents and teachers who constantly and tirelessly work for our benefit and for the good of the school.

The outstanding project of the Parent-Teacher Association this year has been the operation of a school supply shop in the junior high building. From the profits of this activity the P. T. A. earned enough money to award a $250.00 scholarship, and to aid in establishing a second scholarship of the same nature.

This organization has also sponsored a series of adult study groups. The classes in P. T. A. work were taught by Mrs. J. A. Austin, and those in adolescent psychology were directed by Dr. Bertha Cady.

Throughout the year the P. T. A. has portrayed in its monthly meetings the work of the different departments of the school. Each program was under the direction of a school department and members of the student body participated in the presentations.

An organization closely binding home and school, the P. T. A. devotes its every effort to the interests of our student body.

The Clinic

FAMILIAR to us all is our modern, well-equipped clinic. Here annually all students have vision and auditory tests, weight and height check-ups, and dental examinations. Here, also, one may find students patiently holding thermometers in their mouths—a part of their examination after illness. In addition to this, the capable nurses care for bruises, headaches, and numerous other ailments.

The Miami Beach public schools have placed physical perfection high on their list of essentials. This aim has been realized through the efficient efforts of the nursing staff

OUR cafeteria, operated on a non-profit basis by the P. T. A., provides delicious meals for us at a small cost.

A popular innovation this year was the installation of a special quick-lunch counter, known as "Barbour's Bar". Here hot dogs, hamburgers, and those ever-popular "Dagwood" sandwiches were served.

As their contribution to the Bowes Memorial Patio, the members of the cafeteria staff donated one hundred dollars' worth of food and service for a dinner. All the money from the ticket sales for this event was contributed to the patio fund.

For good food and cooperation, we recommend our cafeteria!

In Memoriam

COLONEL ALPHONSUS L. BOWES

"A funeral among men is a wedding feast among the angels." These words of Gibran express with genuine sincerity our feeling in the passing of our friend, the late Colonel Alphonsus L. Bowes.

Familiar to all members of the student bodies and faculties of the Miami Beach School system, Daddy Bowes will long be remembered as one of our most loved friends and advisers.

Always interested in the activities and operations of the school, Daddy Bowes was never too busy to pause for a few minutes to converse with students and teachers. Perhaps it would be a bit of advice, a word of encouragement, or just an amusing anecdote—always an experience to remember.

For the tangible rewards of his constant and untiring efforts on behalf of the Miami Beach Schools, Daddy Bowes will long be remembered. For those many intangible rewards of his ever-present support and encouragement his memory will live forever!

Sophomore Class Activities

Programs, parties, and guidance plans, this year's sophomore class activities—although the class does not function as a unit, the individual home room organizations have been active.

Many of the successful booths in the Junior Carnival were sponsored by sophomore home rooms. The sophomores contributed very generously to the Bowes Memorial Patio Fund. Several "B" Club men and band contest winners are "Sophs". Sophomore teams participated in the home room basketball tournament conducted in the gym.

Most of the sophomore home rooms hold student-conducted programs once a week. These programs cover a multitude of subjects and interests—among which may be included hobby programs, quiz programs of all sorts, and various contests. The class members are very enthusiastic about these weekly activities.

Much of the success of this class is due to the work of the sophomore home room presidents, most of whom are pictured above. They are, left to right: Martin Rosen, Phyllis Cohen, Martin Dain, Tommy Brumlik, and Bobby Blumenthal. Other sophomore presidents are Jefferson Ford, George Orr, and Bob Moore.

Construction and decoration of the booths was a combination of work and fun—then off to join the crowd for the parade

The night of nights! The gayest, noisiest, most important social event of the season—in other words—the Junior Carnival! A crowded midway—resplendent with strings of colored electric lights, inviting booths, loud barkers, tempting food, and funny prizes—did a lively business till midnight. Happy groups pushed their way through the masses on Drexel Avenue to dance in the Bowes Memorial Patio. The famous Minstrel Show was presented three times to a capacity audience. And then, the coronation! During the impressive ceremony, beauteous Phyllis Kruger was crowned the 1939 Carnival Queen. The lovely procession of the Queen's retinue climaxed this, the most successful Junior Carnival in the history of Miami Beach High School.

The Junior Class Officers

As managers of two of the school's largest and most important events the members of the junior class have experienced a busy and interesting year of activities. Throughout the first semester this class was concerned with the problems of the Junior Carnival production. Their net profit of $434.45 evidenced one of the most successful of the Miami Beach High School Carnivals.

The annual Junior-Senior Prom, at which the eleventh graders entertain their upper-classmen, was held at Macfadden-Deauville on March 20.

The capable juniors who this year filled the four major offices were: president, Belvin Friedson; vice-president, Bob Mann; secretary, Alice Bagby; and treasurer, Marion Barbour. Headed by this efficient group of students working in cooperation with the five sponsors, the junior class of 1940 has become a smooth-running and eagerly cooperative group—a most promising senior class in the making!

Reprimand

*That reprimand was like a fire—
Burning, burning—higher, higher;
Like snapping wood, it broke my heart—
Cut it, ruined it, tore it apart.
A fire can last for but a day—
That reprimand will ever stay.*

*I had reached the top
I was tired and ill
    But no matter.
I had climbed to the highest pinnacle
My work was done.
I held the paper, a life—
    My masterpiece.
A few words only, but it was mine
My pen had served me well
I wanted no more.
My hand was unsteady, limp
    But no matter.
I was standing on top.
The top—the top—
The top? The top?
    What is it I say?
I know now, it was only a dream.
Still I have reached no more
    Than the lowest rung.
Just these poor words—
    No more—no less—
I know now—only a dream.
Oh God, do dreams ever come true?*

What Magic

*You once brought tears into my heart,
And your gift was joy today.
What is this magic you possess,
To give what I've tried to say?

You brought a smile into my heart
In your gift of joy today.
My heart knows what this magic is,
For you give what words can't say.*

Let Not Curses

*When he says, "I know all,"
Let not curses be placed upon him.
When he says, "I know all"
His soul is dead—
Curses cannot penetrate.*

The Senior High Student Council

It is a source of pride to all of us that our student body is considered capable of maintaining self government. The Student Council, including representatives from each homeroom, five executive officers, and the president's cabinet, directly supervises and administers school affairs. This year the Council's greatest undertaking was the publishing of our first student guidebook, "The Gold Book". Other projects were the sponsoring of afternoon and evening dances, the maintenance of a Lost and Found Department, and the daily publication of a bulletin containing notices of importance and interest of school events. Through its success in every undertaking the Council has become one of our outstanding school organizations.

MISS DAHLQUIST, Sponsor

Many and varied have been the accomplishments of the Ida M. Fisher Junior High School Student Council this year. Several of their activities were: assistance of the Senior Council in the publication of the "Gold Book", participation in a radio broadcast, revision of the junior high constitution, and their outstanding contribution in bringing to realization the Daddy Bowes Patio.

THE SOCIETY TODAY

Thespian Society—Forensic League

MISS MURIEL MAHONEY, Sponsor

TWO new organizations to make their first appearance in our school this year were the National Thespian Dramatic Society and the National Forensic League.

The Thespian Society was formed for the purpose of encouraging interest and participation in high school dramatics. Members are invited to join on a basis of their former participation in dramatic work in the school. During the first semester the group presented a one-act comedy, "The Nine Lives of Emily". They also sponsored and assisted the productions for the dramatics department. In April the Society's first annual banquet was held and new members who had qualified during the year were initiated.

The National Forensic League is a high school honor society for the purpose of stimulating interest in debate and oratory by offering definite and suitable rewards for successful participation in those activities.

Charter membership in our school was composed of debaters who were runners-up in the state contest last year. Membership is on a point basis and only interscholastic participation is considered. This year the League competed successfully with eight South Florida teams. In May they debated here with a team from the Lanier High School of Macon, Georgia. The League has greatly encouraged more students to take up this valuable training in effective speech.

Both organizations show great promise of continued achievements under the capable guidance of their sponsor, Miss Muriel Mahoney.

Outstanding Senior Award

AMONG the most active and hardest working organizations in our school is the Miami Beach High School Band, directed by Mr. Felix McKernon. This band has, through its numerous appearances at both school and local functions, earned the praise of many nationally famed bandsmen. Both as a peppy drilling squad and technically skilled playing unit, this organization has wholeheartedly supported all school affairs and athletic encounters. The Beach band, which has in three years through the direction of Mr. McKernon progressed from a small unit to a sixty-five piece fully instrumented symphonic band, was awarded perfect ratings this year in the Florida State and the National Regional Band contests. The Beach aggregation received First Division in drilling, sight reading, and concert upon which the judging for this competition is based. Our band was selected to play for Mrs. Roosevelt during her guest appearance in Miami this year. Pictured below are the first place winners in the state contest.

Several members of both organizations participated in the All-City Band and Orchestral Program held in Bayfront Park during May of this year.

Dramatic Department

A GAIN the dramatics department draws the curtain on a banner year.

Everything from Shakespeare to blackface was attempted—and very successfully, too—by this year's dramatics department, under the direction of Miss Muriel Mahoney.

"As You Like It", Miami Beach High School's first venture into the classics, was presented twice to the junior and senior high student bodies in March. The response to this venture was amazing. Three successful performances of the annual minstrel show were given in December—and the funny men were funnier than ever.

The first long play, produced in November, was "New Fires", a three-act comedy. A capacity house thoroughly enjoyed this performance.

The senior class play, the smash Broadway hit of a few years ago, "What A Life", was the final full evening's entertainment for the departmental year.

The presentation of a large number of one-act plays gave every student in the department an opportunity to appear behind the footlights. These plays included "His First Shave", "The Fourteenth Guest", "Three Taps On the Wall", "The Nine Lives of Emily" (a presentation by the Thespian Club), "Grandma Pulls the String", "In the Spring a Young Man's Fancy", "The Flattering Word", and "On the Air".

The Library Assistants

Containing approximately 6,000 volumes, the Miami Beach High School library serves an average of 650 students a day. In this, the center of all research work, book reporting, and pleasure reading, members of the student-body daily assist with clerical and shelving duties. A branch is maintained in the junior high study hall for seventh and eighth grades. The most used establishment in school, our library, is a source of constant enjoyment to the entire student body and faculty.

One of the newest and most useful innovations in the school is the Lost and Found Department. The little room, sandwiched between the first floor stairway and the main office, houses lost and found articles ranging anywhere from pencils to raincoats. It is efficiently superintended by Audrey Hirsch, who has devoted much time and effort to making this project a success. The department is open for business during lunch, and before and after school.

SENIOR PLAY MAY 2nd AND 3rd

WORLD ECHOS From the Editor

By MARSHALL ROSENBERG
A NEW ERA—
Within the last two weeks the Miami Beach Senior High School and the Ida M. Fisher Junior High School have seen two new innovations in the school. One, the start of what we hope will be a long and enjoyable series of Shakespearean plays. Put on by members of the dramatic department, under the direction and supervision of Miss Marjorie Blaney, the play, "As You Like It," was truly worthy of the time and effort everyone connected with it put into it. Well received by both junior and senior high people, the experience showed that an offering of that type, which is drastically different from the usual comedy, can be appreciated, understood and enjoyed by all. We hope the department will see fit to continue this activity in the future.

Also within the past few weeks several motion pictures have been shown in the auditorium. One last week on counterfeiting money and another also last week on the Federal Housing Projects throughout the world and right here in our own Greater Miami Area. These pictures have been extremely educational as well as one of the most entertaining projects yet shown in the school. Mr. Elliott has announced that inasmuch as the pictures were so well received efforts were being made to secure a larger screen, and to get proper material, so that the movie projection booth in the rear of the auditorium may be used.

VOTE TODAY

Just a reminder to be sure and vote for editor-in-chief and business manager in the ballot at the bottom of the column. The Breeze is your paper, and you should choose your editors.

Local H. S. Boys Try for $4,000 Scholarship

The chance to win $4,000 to pay for a complete college education is making a hit with seniors in the Miami Beach High School.

Of course there is a catch to it in the form of a special examination to be given to all entrants in the Opportunity Scholarship Competition now being conducted in schools all over the country, but students here are confident that the questions prepared by Columbia University and other educational experts won't stump them. They are keeping their eyes fixed on the career of David Serrinoff, president of the Radio Corporation of America, sponsors of the competition, who rose through sheer ability from menial jobs to head of a worldwide organization.

Ten preliminary national winners will be chosen by a board of eminent radio aristocrats. These boys will spend a month next summer in New York and Camden, N. J., where they will study the research laboratories and engineering facilities of NBC and RCA Victor. Visits to the World's Fair also will be made. All expenses of the trip will be borne by the sponsor. Then, one student will be chosen as the one most likely to succeed in a radio advertising career, and he will be awarded the $4,000 scholarship at a leading engineering college. Each of the other nine boys will receive $1,000 in addition to the trip.

Local interest in the big competition is centered on the chance of Seymour S. Cohen, who is interested in Physics and Phonography, and Harry DeWitt, whose chief hobby is radio experimentation.

Housing Contest Is Sponsored For Miami Essayists

Dade County School Children
To Enter Declaration
Prize

The Housing Authority of the city of Miami is sponsoring an essay contest for all the Dade County schools, including the large elementary schools. Students will be divided into groups according to age.

The housing authorities hope through this contest, to stimulate interest among the younger generation in their program of better housing, and to better acquaint the students with the purpose of the housing program, which helps to prevent crime, especially juvenile crime; to promote better citizenship, spiritual growth, better citizenship, better health and better human relations.

The essay should contain from 100 to 300 words. Typed copy is preferred. The contest will be judged on research, construction, punctuation, spelling, neatness and accuracy. The essay must be original.

The contest begins March 15 and will close May 15. All essays should be mailed to Mrs. T. T. Stevens, Public Relations Representative, Miami Housing Authority, 1001 N. W. Second Avenue, Miami, Fla., not later than 11 a. m. closing date.

Cash prizes for it will be awarded at the event. Prizes are $15.00 for the best essay, $10.00 for the second, $5.00 for the third, and $2.50 for each group's best essay.

The contest is held in our schools by the department, under the direction of Mr. McGuire and Miss arranged for the contest on housing, which will be held on Thursday. They are field trip and a few near future.

The judges appear Mary E. Merritt of the University of Miami; Reverend Father of the Trinity Methodist Church; and F. W. Barton, vice president and director of WQAM radio station.

Pupils Hear Lecture and Earn Credit

About fifty members of the French department attended a recent evening meeting of the Alliance Francaise, Miami's French Society, where they ate the best cookies on the trays while refreshments were served. Listened to about two hours of French lecture by the noted savant Dr. Georges Noret who talked about everything from the Munich Pact to snails. Some of them squirmed occasionally and chewed gum vigorously, until caught; all earned French credit for attending, and for the most part had a lot to say about it.

Before the meeting began Mrs. Brown whispered (not too gently) in their ears, singly and collectively, "Boys, boys!" (Do not sleep!) Many of them understood which it, especially when he talked about the Munich Pact and the snails. The lecturer for the evening was Dr. Noret.

Wilcox Will Portray Typical Student In Comedy

2 PERFORMANCES

Tickets Go On Sale Through Business Department

"What A Life," the well-known Broadway comedy by Clifford Goldsmith, has been chosen as the senior class play to be presented in the Miami Beach High School auditorium May 2 and 3. This annual dramatic endeavor is produced for the benefit of the school year book, The Typo.

You are all familiar with the Henry Aldrich family and will want to see Billy Wilcox in the role of this misadventured high school junior as he depicts the many trials, hardships and laughs in the average day of the problem child.

You will laugh with laughter when you see this quick-moving comedy, written with sympathy and extraordinary understanding of the viewpoint of the high school boy and girl and their teachers and parents. The many good and bad things that happen to the life of the normal student in the "teen" ages.

Noted Comedy

"What A Life" is one of the most attractive comedies that has been released for amateur in recent years. It's run on Broadway for well over a year, its marked success on the road and now the popular radio star, Extra Stage, as Henry Aldrich, makes this an especially popular play.

The play will be given two performances, a matinee at 2:30 on Thursday, May 2, and the regular night performance at 8 o'clock Friday, May 3. The matinee is being presented to accommodate the large number of elementary students who will want to see that particular play. Prices for matinee will be 15 cents for elementary, 7th and 8th grade students. Other prices for the night performance are students, 25 cents; general admission, 35 cents, and reserved seats, 50 cents.

Costumes

Miss Marjorie Blaney, director, has chosen the following costumes for the cast of characters: Henry Aldrich, played by Billy Wilcox; his best friend, Barbara Pearson, played by Janet Cole; Mr. Bradley, the principal, Irwin Blumberg; his secretary, Miss Shaw, Phyllis Kruger; Marshall Rosenberg is portraying the understanding assistant principal, Mr. Nelson. Members of the faculty include Joan Bonifant as Miss Pike, the science teacher; Nancy Quigley as Miss Argleton, the study hall teacher; Laura Dwyer as Miss Wheeler, the music teacher; Donald Klein as Mr. Patterson, the history teacher; and Joanne Pfeffer as Miss Johnson, the physical education teacher. Students include Joe Birch as Bill, Martin Gettle as George Blumberg, Marguerite Bonifant as Mary, Frances Ann Burton, Ruth Albert, Joan Welch, Marion Cohen, Phyllis Patton. The role of Henry's mother will be played by Joanne Gurnard and that of the detective by Jack Farley.

Tickets On Sale

Tickets go on sale today and may be purchased from your home from member of the business managers, Dick Ann Carter, Betty Taylor or Betty Simmons. Programs are in charge of Phyllis Lee, Harriet Kohn and Perry Cohen. Property managers include Marjorie Altschul and Lorraine Brown. Promoters will be Annie Cohen and Natalie Edgar, and stage managers are Marion Cohen and Francis Jack. Publicity is in charge of Phyllis Bonifant and Lawrence Schach.

"America"

*America, my hopes for you
Are built on simple things;
A shining faith—and Honor true—
And Fellowship of man that springs
From zealous love our fathers knew.*

*Let us keep faith with those who left
Their homelands far or near;
For Liberty's sweet right they cleft
All ties to pioneer;
Their bright ideals are tarnished black,
Covered with grime and dust.
Oh, let us put that lustre back
With old time faith and trust!*

*May selfless love live in the hearts
Of all our fellowmen;
May we give labor, means, and arts
To build a better land . . . and then:
Let us wipe out the dreadful slums
That lie upon your face,
And build clean, happy healthful homes
Of stone to take their place.*

*Down with war and destruction,
Down with corruption, too!
I do not want the horrors of war
To wreck and ruin you!*

*Oh, let us walk on roads that lead to peace,
And old ideals renew.
God give us strength to never cease
Until this job we do!*

*I also hope the years to come
Bring greater unity—
More factories where motors' hum
Increase men's loyalty.*

*I wish you, too, my own dear land,
Exalted rank and fame,
Successes great and wealth in hand
Add glory to your name.*

*But let this be, dear land of mine,
A sanctuary too,
A place of refuge and a shrine
For all who come to you.*

*As it take pennies to make a dollar,
It takes these little things
To build a nation great and strong,
A land where "FREEDOM RINGS!"*

The Unbearable Night

Darkness descends like a bomb—swiftly and without warning—shattering the brightness of day,

Evening flies by—unnoticed 'til gone—yet the darkness of night stays on.

*Bedtime approaches, once welcome—once
—yet I linger, unwilling to approach
it, afraid;*

*But drowsiness drags me beneath warm, warm covers—which keep out the cold
of the night, and imprison the warmth of me—my body—or is it the warmth of my heart?*

Sleep—oh, pleasant sleep disdains me, comes not to my bed—my warm, warm bed, tempts me—but keeps me aware of the movements about me.

*Cruel sleep, yes! But still so pleasant,
I yearn for your comfort—but still you elude me.*

Thoughts soon shall enter my yearning mind, to aid cruel sleep in her terrible teasings—many, too many thoughts . . .

*The night passes on, slowly, gradually onward—creeping and stumbling,
And dawn's gentle rays close my dim eyes in slumber—gentle rays of dawn which I awaited, alone.*

*"Sleep not." Nay, sleep was denied me.
Yet Dawn gave me slumber—slumber at last, after darkness was gone.*

BERNICE MILLER, 11B2

"One Day of Freedom"

*If all the children had one day
To banish rule and have their way,
Each carefree, naughty child
Would have the joy of running wild.*

*Oh, what a sight the school would be
With all the children being free
To break the windows, slam the doors,
And slide upon the slippery floors.*

*They'd fool the teachers every one
And laugh and talk and race and run.
And if the teacher said, "Be quiet,"
They'd all rebel and start a riot.*

*They'd swarm the streets and raid the town,
And turn the city upside down;
But when that day does REALLY dawn,
I'm sure we'll all be—dead and gone!*

The Athletic Council

To the moral and financial support of the athletic council may be traced our many successful athletic campaigns. Supervising all athletics, this group controls every phase of our sports department, such as scheduling of games, determining eligibility, awarding letters, and handling of special awards. The council is composed of the entire coaching staff, several other members of the faculty, and a representative of our student body.

This organization, which year after year has sponsored championship teams in football, basketball, tennis, golf, and swimming, deserves much credit for maintaining the high standards for which Miami Beach High School athletics are known.

Girls' Physical Education Program

Miss Evant, Sponsor

Maintenance of high health standards, encouragement of initiative, leadership, good sportsmanship, and emphasis of social advantages are the principle aims advanced by the Girls' Physical Education Department through teaching the elements of sports. The program is outlined to give all girls participating excellent experience in every sport. Emphasis is placed upon the future of this practical knowledge in the sport field.

Boys' Physical Education Program

The boys' physical education classes directed by Coach Erwin Grau are primarily for the purpose of developing the body, athletic ability, and good sportsmanship. The boys alternate with the girls in the use of the gymnasium where they follow both a formal and an informal program. Out-of-doors highly organized sports such as touch football, soft-ball, and soccer are played.

Time and the Typhoons march on!

Football

This season the Miami Beach football fans are able to speak of their team with pride, for the 1939 Typhoons came home victorious in five out of the seven games played. The team finished second in the Florida South East Conference League, losing the deciding game to Andrew Jackson of Miami by one point.

The return of nearly all of last year's lettermen made the squad one of the strongest in the school's history. The boys proved this fact by easily defeating most of their opponents.

Many outstanding players are graduating this year and they carry with them memories of a good job well done.

Football Managers

To acquaint you with these hard-working fellows, we introduce to you the managers of the football team. Few people appreciate the work of these boys in taking care of the enormous amount of equipment used by the squad. Their work includes outfitting the team, giving out and putting away the equipment each day, stenciling numbers, attending to the mending and laundering of uniforms, and many other duties. We sincerely believe that they merit this introduction.

Manager Lucinda Redwine, and No. 1 player Nellie Sheer.

Girls' Tennis Team

THE Miami Beach High School Girls' Tennis Team has been state champion as well as Southeast Florida High School champions for the past three consecutive years, 1937, 1938, and 1939, and is well on its way towards the 1940 titles in both of these same divisions with an undefeated record so far this season.

Coached by Bill Rice, tennis professional at Flamingo Park, these girls start practicing in early October twice each week until the Southeast Florida High School League opens play the second semester. Then only one practice is held each week and matches are played once each week. The squad has been particularly hard-working this year as only one regular member of the 1939 team was still on the squad and yet these girls are "tops" again.

Outstanding on the team is the number one player, Nellie Sheer, who this year after a hard campaign in the north and east during the past summer, was ranked fourth in the United States for girls of 18 years of age and under. Nellie has held the state high school singles' championship for three years and hopes to repeat her performance again this year. A special word should be said for the excellent work that has been done by Lucinda Redwine as manager of the team. She has handled this position as it should be handled and those directing athletic activities appreciate her good-natured and business-like co-operation.

No. 1 Player Jack Blair, Coach White, and Manager Jim Burgner

Boys' Tennis Team

OUR tennis team under Coach White can be depended upon to excel in all competition and make us proud of them. This year's team has been no exception.

With three lettermen and a few more boys, Coach White succeeded in developing a team that is considered one of the strongest in the state.

The Typhoon racket wielders won five of the seven matches played, losing to Fort Lauderdale for the first time in seven years and to the powerful state championship West Palm Beach aggregation.

At the state tournament in Orlando the players put up a gallant fight but failed to capture the state championship which Miami Beach tennis teams have won for the past three years.

In this tournament Jack Blair and Eugene Rosenberg lost to Blake and Hendry of Hillsborough, the runners up in the doubles play. Jack Blair lost a grinding four hour match with Bud Hart of Gesu in the finals of the singles matches. This was the longest contest in the history of the state tournament.

The coaching ability of Mr. White and the popularity of tennis among the students are the reasons for our school's success in this sport.

Basketball

Varsity Basketball

Coach McGuire's 1939 basketball team, handicapped by inexperience and sickness, played through an admirable season, winning eleven and losing thirteen of the twenty-four games played. This record is not as outstanding as some previous years' showing, but next year's regulars obtained valuable experience which will improve their performance materially next season.

The varsity squad traveled on two road trips; one to Jacksonville where they played the various schools in that city and another to Orlando for the state tournament. In this tournament the boys defeated the Bolle's School of Jacksonville in the first round, but were eliminated by Leon of Tallahassee in the second game.

Junior High Basketball

WINNING 9 games and losing 2, this year's Junior High basketball team has one of the best records of all Junior High teams that have ever represented Ida M. Fisher. This team showed itself to be one of the most cooperative and loyal teams in several years and many of the boys are expected to make a strong bid for the Senior High varsity next year. Outstanding among these are Bob Leavitt, George Hunde, James Snedigar and Bernard Moses.

The primary objective of the Junior High Team is the development of good players to replace graduating seniors on the varsity squad. Basketball is a highly skilled game and requires much practice and training on the part of the players. Therefore the coaches endeavor to give their future stars early experience in the game.

The Golf Team

GOLF is rapidly coming into prominence in the school's sports curriculum. This sport, coached by Mr. Francis Livermore, has done remarkably well well during its opening years.

This season the team completed a very successful program winning the six conference matches that it played. The Typhoons were beaten in two non-league contests, but their losses were avenged in return matches.

At Miami Springs the players established themselves as champions of the South East Conference in a final match with Ponce de Leon.

Tim Moore and Sanford Rissman played together at Orlando to win the state team title for Miami Beach.

Swimming Team

MARY HOERGER

*1935 Senior National Outdoor
Diving Champion*

THE girls' swimming team, organized in 1936, has met a growing demand in the state and in this school for such a sport. The girls practice at the Deauville pool, and are coached by Mr. Bob Wilson.

The team has had four very successful seasons. This year at the state swimming meet, held in St. Petersburg on April 27, these girls won the state championship for the fourth consecutive year. Cold weather this year prevented the state schools from holding the many local swimming contests they had planned.

Riding Club

DOROTHY LEWIS

*Winner of First Place in the Advanced
Competition in the Miami Horse Show*

Although this is only the third year that horseback riding has been included in our intramural program, it has rapidly risen to the ranks of one of the most popular sports in both the senior and junior high schools.

Over one hundred girls, who ride two afternoons a week, are members of the Riding Club. Two riding academies are required to provide the demand for horses.

The horsemanship of the girls has so improved that it is increasingly difficult to choose those who will compete in the annual horse show to be held in May.

This year Dorothy Lewis, pictured above, won the advanced riding competition and the Beach girls tied with Miami Edison Senior High School for the trophy.

The Last Will and Testament

We, the Senior Class of 1940, having been found of sound mind, of retentive memory, with the exception of matters directly concerning school and the activities connected therewith, and otherwise totally balanced physically and mentally and considering the uncertainty of our future existence on this earth do therefore make, ordain, publish, and declare this to be our last Will and Testament—that is to say:

I, MURREL KASTAN, do hereby will and bequeath my ability to sit on the bench to Ed Feinstein.

I, WILLIAM HIBEL, do hereby will and bequeath my geometry compass to someone with a pencil to fit it.

I, LITA ARONOVITZ, do hereby will and bequeath to any junior my seat in Miss Roberts' English class

I, ELLIS MARKS, do hereby will and bequeath my ability to score points in the state basketball tournament to Kenny Davidson.

I, ALBERT DAVIDSON, do hereby will and bequeath to Miami Beach High School all my memories of its beauty and splendor.

I, ALBERT SOLO, do hereby will and bequeath my commercial law marks to any poor sophomore who wants to spend the rest of his life learning the difference between law and the right thing.

I, FRED FEINBERG, do hereby will and bequeath my ability to hand homework in late without getting my grade cut to some lazy junior who will need it.

I, SHIRLEY GORDON, do hereby will and bequeath my gift for getting caught doing the wrong thing at the wrong time to someone who can do it at the right time.

I, FLORENCE ZUCKERMAN, do hereby will and bequeath my "good luck" to Phyllis Wolfson with hopes that she will do better with it than I did.

I, JIM MEYER, do hereby will and bequeath my ability to stay out of school to Elsa Kennon although she doesn't need it.

I, MERVYN THAL, do hereby will and bequeath my soapbox to Miss Roberts so her pupils in the back of the room can see her rave.

I, JACK RUBIN, do hereby will and bequeath my big brown eyes to Aunt Pittypat Roberts.

I, PHYLLIS HERTZMAN, do hereby will and bequeath my money making annual position to my sister Ruth.

I, JEAN ROBERTS, do hereby will and bequeath to any fun loving junior my ability to get by without homework.

I, CORNELIA NORDYKE, do hereby will and bequeath my cheer leading ability to my younger sister Blanche.

I, SIG DRURY, do hereby will and bequeath my ability to get out of school third and seventh period to anyone who can find some place to go.

I, FRANCIS JACK, do hereby will and bequeath my ability to stay nineteen years old for three years to Fred James. He will need it if he keeps up.

I, JEANNE GARRARD, do hereby will and bequeath my ability to get into trouble to Mollye Wilson and my ability to order Wilcox around to anyone who can do it without a script.

I, DOROTHY WOLLNER, do hereby will and bequeath my ability to talk in study hall and get away with it to any junior that likes to talk.

I, NORMA CLAUS, do hereby will and bequeath to any ambitious underclassmate my civics book, if he can find it. I haven't been able to do so.

I, ANITA ALTER, do hereby will and bequeath my knitting ability to any junior who wants to fiddle away her time in class, yet accomplish something.

I, BETTY TAYLOR, do hereby will and bequeath my rabbit's foot "Little Willie" to June Lundberg to carry to all football and basketball games.

I, DORIS JEAN MACINTOSH, do hereby will and bequeath my ability to be quiet under certain circumstances to any junior who finds his loquaciousness a burden to the teachers.

I, PEGGY SCHIFFMAN, do hereby will and bequeath my ability to get caught chewing gum in Mr. McGuire's class to anyone who's been lucky enough to get away with it all these years.

I, MURIEL SAWITZ, do hereby will and bequeath to Ruth Hirsch, my best friend, the grand times that I had in my senior year.

I, ELEANORE SKLAR, do hereby will and bequeath to Margorie Brandfon my ability to take things seriously and to Hilda Ratner my musical ability.

I, JOAN SAUNDERS, do hereby will and bequeath my blushing ability in Mr. McGuire's class to Grace Walton who does all right for herself.

I, NANCY QUIGLEY, do hereby will and bequeath my ability to get a part in the senior class play to Bill Stubbs.

I, MARGUERITE BOURBON, do hereby will and bequeath to John Mitchell my ability to keep my weight under a hundred pounds.

I, BILL COHEN, do hereby will and bequeath my red hair to any coming senior who wishes to stand out in a crowd.

I, LAURA DOZIER, do hereby will and bequeath my love of knitting to Dorothy Lewis who doesn't seem to go for that sort of thing.

I, BETTE LIEBLING, do hereby will and bequeath my curly brown hair to Debby Rabinowitz who sees to be doing all right herself.

I, RALPH NEWMAN, do hereby will and bequeath the expense and woes of "Henry" to the next goof who unwittingly buys a Ford.

I, RUTH KATZ, do hereby will and bequeath my "Golden Silence" to Debby Rabinowitz.

I, FLORAN FRIEDMAN, do hereby will and bequeath "Les Miserables" to Mrs. Grace Du Pre Brown in the firm hope that she will be able to translate it.

I, TIM MOORE, do hereby will and bequeath to my kid brother, Bob, all the homework that Miss Roberts can possibly give, for I am sure that he won't do it.

I, LEE SILVER, do hereby will and bequeath my body to the science department in the hope that the science teachers will have as much fun in taking me apart when I am dead as they did when I was alive.

I, MARVIN KRANZ, do hereby will and bequeath an unpaid ticket to Peru and back to Mrs. Ware.

I, LEWIS ALBERTS, do hereby will and bequeath the hair on my chest to Billy Kelly.

I, BERT SMALLWOOD, do hereby will and bequeath my high 90s to Jeff Ford for next year's golf team.

I, MERTON GETTIS, do hereby will and bequeath the hope and wish to Lenny Drillich that he may graduate with the next ten years.

I, ANNE THATCHER, do hereby will and bequeath my worried expression to anyone who may desire a few words of inquiring interest from members of the faculty.

I, LLOYD GARDNER, do hereby will and bequeath Mr. Menneken's tallness to Miss (Coach) Roberts shortness in the hope that some day Mr. Menneken will grow short so I won't have to look up to him and Miss Roberts tall so I won't have to look down to her.

I, RUTH ALPERT, do hereby will and bequeath my height to Miss Roberts for further facility in answering the telephone in her room.

I, LEONARD GLASSER, do hereby will and bequeath my love and devotion to all the pretty girls in the school.

I, PEGGY SPORBORG, do hereby will and bequeath a noiseless typewriter to Madame Brown, for use during music appreciation programs.

I, BETTE HANSON, do hereby will and bequeath my ability to get into hot water to Marie Merritt who really doesn't need it.

I, JOANNE PUFFER, do hereby will and bequeath my horn to Miss Mahoney in hopes the dramatic department can find some use for it.

I, MARSHALL ROSENBERG, do hereby will and bequeath my ability to cut classes legally without getting caught to Shirley Swede who doesn't do so well.

I, JACK FARLEY, do hereby will and bequeath the honor of having to bring my birth certificate in order to play football to Louis Snedigar, who will probably have to do the same next year.

I, BILL WILCOX, do hereby will and bequeath my ability to stay in school fifteen years to Fred James, who is doing all right.

I, MEL RICHARDSON, do hereby will and bequeath to the unfortunate gents of this school some of the country's cutest gals.

I, IRMA SILVERSTEIN, do hereby will and bequeath my ballroom dancing ability to Alice Bagby and Marion Barbour, who are better off without it.

I, STANLEY FRANK, do hereby will and bequeath my educated, flirtatious wink to Mel Keller.

I, JANET COLE, do hereby will and bequeath my love of good food to any junior that really wants to gain weight.

I, DON McCREADY, do hereby will and bequeath the guesswork navigation that Eugene Wrigley will and bequeathed to me to Charley Sherman in hopes that he will have more use for it than I have.

I, EUGENE ROSENBERG, do hereby will and bequeath all my dogging ability on the basketball court to Johnny McGuire's future stars. They can use plenty of it.

I, DORIS ANN CARVER, do hereby will and bequeath my knowledge of foreign languages to "Bobby" Newmark, in hopes that she can use it.

I, CORRINNE DU BOIS, do hereby will and bequeath my ability to go through a full year of Home Economics to any out-of-town female senior.

I, LONNIE DICKSON, do hereby will and bequeath my ability to miss the game warden to Chickie Sherman, who can't shoot straight anyhow.

*He's now dead.
+1*

I, JUNIOR ABELE, do hereby will and bequeath to Donny Konski, my ability to stay in school fourteen years, never get an A, and get in every jam.

I, CONSTANCE JAVER, do hereby will and bequeath to the future female students of the senior class "the little man who isn't there!"

I, EVELYN BELOV, do hereby will and bequeath my out of 'temps' to Mr. McKernon's discretion.

I, LORRAINE SYLVIA BROWN, do hereby will and bequeath my red hair to the custodians to hang out as a danger signal when preparing for the next carnival.

I, DEL DAMRAU, do hereby will and bequeath my size 14½EEEE snowshoes to Miss Roberts to keep her from trekking any deeper among the English poets.

I, FRANK BERLIN, do hereby will and bequeath my ability not to take English from Miss Roberts to some unsuspecting junior.

I, ELIZABETH LEWIS, do hereby will and bequeath my athletic ability in all sports to my sister, Dot, in the hopes that some day she will receive a reward or letter.

I, JANE TASHIRO, do hereby will and bequeath all my notes—both sweet and sour—to any music minded beginner who has not, as yet, started a collection of his own.

I, JEANNE RODGERS, do hereby will and bequeath my ability to make string beans and shredded carrots look like typewriter ribbon to Billy Wilcox, who really doesn't need it.

I, CHARLENE FARVER, do hereby will and bequeath my ability to go with the same boy four years to those juniors and sophomores who need it.

I, DAVID LEVANTIN, do hereby will and bequeath to a dumber fellow than I the luck of always passing by the skin of my teeth.

I, JEAN WINTER, do hereby will and bequeath my big feet to my younger brother, Harold, who is doing well by himself.

I, PHYLLIS HOROWITZ, do hereby will and bequeath to anyone junior the task of taking the roll in Miss Rickman's first period study hall.

I, EDWIN CHENTOFF, do hereby will and bequeath my old kiddy car, set of building blocks, tin soldiers and all-day sucker to Mr. J. C. McGuire, who will enjoy playing with them more than anyone else I know.

I, ESTELLE SCHIFFMAN, do hereby will and bequeath my ability to sew (?) to Bunny Miller and Selma Shapiro and may they find it as profitable as I haven't.

I, GEORGE BERLIN, do hereby will and bequeath my double to anybody who wants to be called by the wrong name all the time.

I, HARRIET KOHN, do hereby will and bequeath my sense of humor and ability to act nonchalant in English class to "Little Caesar" Roberts, who for some unknown reason asked for it.

I, LILA NICHOLSON, do hereby will and bequeath my ability to get to school at 8:29 to any junior who feels lucky.

I, MERVIN KELLER, do hereby will and bequeath part of my good nature to Miss Eileen Terry—(I'm still looking for the other part).

I, IRVING FRIEDMAN, do hereby will and bequeath my Chemistry notes to anyone who likes to analyze hand-writing.

I, HELEN CLANCY, do hereby will and bequeath my ability to get up in the morning for school to Elsa Kennon.

I, MARGARET JAMES, do hereby will and bequeath my English notes to some deserving junior who doesn't care to get writer's cramp.

I, HARRIET WEINTRAUB, do hereby will and bequeath some of my craziest sketches to whoever is able to figure out what they represent.

I, SHIRLEY BLOOM, do hereby will and bequeath to any unsuspecting underclassman the "Disability" to work for two years in the dramatics department and come off with one part to my credit.

I, IRVING HOROWITZ, do hereby will and bequeath, in sound mind and body, Madame Brown a new book for her detention record.

I, ETHEL ZEVIN, do hereby will and bequeath to any sophomore or junior girl in the clothing part of the Home Ec. Department my ability to get an "A" on my first stocking darn.

I, RICHARD HODES, do hereby will and bequeath Mr. McKernon to George Seltzer and the rest of the band.

I, ARNOLD GOODHART, do hereby will and bequeath my dear departed seventy-five pounds to whoever wants them.

I, GIL JOHNSON, do hereby will and bequeath my silence to any loud-mouthed junior who gets in trouble by talking too much.

I, ELEANOR ROWE, do hereby will and bequeath my beer jacket to June Lundberg—I'm sure it will fit her.

I, REAN SEILER, do hereby will and bequeath my beautiful green pants to any junior who is man enough to wear them.

I, JIM BURGNER, do hereby will and bequeath my height to Bob Boyle.

I, PERRY COHEN, do hereby will and bequeath my unluckiness in love to Bob Marcus. He sure got it.

I, MARIANNA BRONSTON, do hereby will and bequeath to Lila Greenspan my ability to carry an intelligent French conversation: on wines and liqueurs and Zombies!

I, ELY KAUFMAN, do hereby will and bequeath my luck to some junior who will need it to pass as I did.

I, JOE HIRSCH, do hereby will and bequeath my non-ability to will and bequeath to any up-and-coming junior.

I, MARGIE TILNEY, do hereby will and bequeath my ability to be restless in study hall to Ellen Anderson, who doesn't need it.

I, JACQUELINE COOGAN, do hereby will and bequeath my Vergil pony to some future struggling Latin student who wants to get along without any work.

I, LILLIAN WEINSTEIN, do hereby will and bequeath my ability to talk during study hall without Miss Rickman's permission.

I, ARLENE BLANK, do hereby will and bequeath my ability to make the high honor role to Shirley Swede.

I, ANITA PECHTER, do hereby will and bequeath my good fortune to graduate to my cousin, Stanley, who surely needs it.

I, EDNA TRACHTENBERG, do hereby will and bequeath my height to Muriel Newfeld, who surely would look cute with it.

I, TRUDY SATIN, do hereby will and bequeath my height to Walter Reid, who really needs it.

I, SANDY RISSMAN, do hereby will and bequeath my through putt greens to Miami Beach High, with pleasure.

I, HARVEY KLEIN, do hereby will and bequeath my nose to the entire junior class to give them something to look forward to.

I, LUCINDA REDWINE, do hereby will and bequeath the rough draft of my citizenship theme to Grace Walton so that hers will be different for one year at least.

I, VIVIAN SCHIFFER, do hereby will and bequeath Macbeth to all future strugglers.

With regret at leaving this our loved Alma-Mater, yet with the feeling that our task has been accomplished faithfully and completely we, the Senior Class of 1940, do hereby sign, publish, and declare the above as its last will and testament in the presence of each of us and the below signed witnesses.

Meditations On Lost Elysian Paradise

*I dwelt in a world where a poet's fancy was wont to dwell,
In a paradise of beauty I fortified a citadel.
I walked in gardens of bright colored flowers
And tiptoed about in Lovers' bowers.*

*I roamed the forests and fields of heather,
My dog at my side and a cloak for the weather.
I slept in the open 'neath starry skies;
I felt what is solitude, and the forest's eyes.*

*And I would awake with the rose-red dawn,
The chirping squirrels and tripping fawn,
To drink of clearest sparkling brooks,
Taste good things, and read fine books.*

*And sit all day upon a woven throne
Of gilded, golden leaves that shone
With such a lustre in the rays of the sun
That the flaming chariot and my throne seemed one.*

*A sturdy twig I plucked from a tree
And fashioned of it a lute for me.
The smallest and the lightest clime
Were tuned to sweetest verse and rhyme.*

*Yet how long could such a joyous cup of life be mine?
How long the whispering breeze, the humming bees, the pure sunshine,
Reign with me in my beloved paradise? How long?
How long the quaking leaves, the humming bees, the thrush's song?
How long my gleaming verdant trees and sparkling silver streams?
Alas—they were all but dreams in a poet's world of dreams.*

HERBERT LE BOYER

The Eclipse

(An interval of Light between Dark and Dark)

Black—thick black, as thick and as black as tar. All around—creeping slowly, slowly—ever creeping towards him, at last encircling him. Then there was nothing but a deep stillness; a crushing stillness that shook the very soul. And then sleep. He tried to fight off the crawling slumber, but it was an assailant that could not be repelled with arms. It came crashing down upon him, overpowering him as he cursed the intangible thing that the brutal strength of man and his inventions could not repulse. He lay on his back in the mud, weak and trembling. At last all was hollow and gone.

The sparkling dew of early morning washed the young grass freshly green. The air was fragrant without the odor of flowers, fragrant with perfume of early morning freshness. A bird sang with heart bursting at the glory of a day new born.

The sun beat upon his face and he woke—"What is this place of light and freshness and of bird song? Is it THE PLACE of glory and happiness and of living forever? No, it is not; if it were, I would be able to move, but I cannot; yet I can see, hear, and smell—smell the freshness in the air. How pure the air is! I must be in another land—it couldn't be the same. I wonder if I can talk—what shall I say? There is no one about—"

His weak, hollow voice rose above the song of the bird, "sunset and evening star, and one clear call for me—". There was a rustle and a movement from an outer room and two voices broke the morning stillness. One was a woman's.

"He is speaking. Can it be delirium?"

And then came a voice of deeper pitch, that of a man. "It can't possibly be—the fever has broken."

A nurse glided into the room, followed by a doctor. She was a tall, graceful woman with long blonde hair and blue eyes. The doctor, a short man of sturdy and straight stature, wearing an officer's uniform and peering through pince-nez at the pale bandaged figure in the high hospital bed, greeted him. "Well, old man, you had a tough fight, but I think we'll bring you around. This is your nurse. She will see to it that you have everything, and are comfortable until you leave us."

The soldier smiled weakly at the blonde girl. "I'm sure she will be fine, doctor. By the way, what is this place? It can't be behind the lines, the air is too sweet. I'm puzzled."

"Take it easy, now, boy. Miss Wade will do the explaining. Don't talk too much now. I'll pop in to see you later."

A gentle breeze kissed his brow and blew the curtains to and fro, and all was peaceful.

"Three days of light have I since the dark, yet I feel a nothingness in my body. When will I be able to walk?"

A shadow crossed the face of the lovely nurse. She slowly moved towards the bed and took the hand of the young redheaded boy in hers. His hand was hot and trembling.

"Would you think me quite mad if I told you that in three days I have lived a lifetime, that I feel love for an angel who greeted me when I came from the dark into the light of life?" he said.

The girl tried to fight off the look of pity that was destined to cross her face, but it came.

"Dear boy, you must not think these things. It would not be just me, but any kind of person. This isn't love you feel, but thankfulness—God knows I can't see what you've got to be thankful for."

She could not tell him that he would never walk again, because he had naught with which to walk. She could not say that this interval of light would not last. All she could do was to make it a happy interval.

She moved as one in a dream, smoothing his red hair and smiling into his laughing eyes. He was happy, the air was fresh, and bird song filled the halls of pain.

"When I am out of here we will have such fun. We will dance in the gayest places and run through the fresh green fields, hysterically happy children." And always she would smile and say, "Yes, yes, we shall be very happy then."

And then it came—in the day of a cool wind and blooming flowers, a strange burning in his head—a burning that made him weak—and gave him the feeling of falling from great heights. He called her to him in a voice without happiness—in a voice that was death itself, and she came and rested her cool hand upon his forehead, and he whispered, "Sunset and evening star, and one clear call for me." Then there was nothing but blackness.

Study ??

'Tis rumored that people study in Study Hall, and in order to dispel any doubts concerning this subject, we hereby publish a radiator's eye view of the situation. Any similarity to actual persons is purely accidental.

A bell rings; sounds of a stampede come from the corridor. From the general melee become detached the heroines of this little tale, four seniors of average or (they like to think) more than average intelligence. They greet each other like long-lost friends, although they have parted not two hours ago.

These girls take their places next to the radiator with every intention of getting a great deal of work done, but somehow they just can't get down to it. Notes fly back and forth, their owners neglecting to take even slight precautions against discovery. As interest in the topic waxes, they don't even take time to scribble notes; they begin—dare it be said?—they begin to talk. Without realizing it, they become more than slightly audible. A pointed remark from the harrassed teacher brings these loquacious four guiltily back to earth. With their elusive good intentions again remembered, the girls reapply themselves to their studying. This cycle then repeats itself, until the teacher effectively silences these girls for a few moments by threatening to separate them. But even that threat doesn't hold them for long, despite their good resolutions.

Much to the relief of the teacher and those near our four friends, the bell finally rings. As our heroines reluctantly exit together (for they really do enjoy Study Hall and like the teacher), they can't understand why they haven't accomplished very much during the period.

Yes, people study in Study Hall—sometimes.

"The Old Order Changeth"

UNBOUNDED "wishful thinking" and an occasional salute to the flag is not enough to meet the stern challenges and menaces which now threaten our hard-earned democracy. Today we are being subjected to all the ills of a world caught in turbulent waters, and our duty, youth's duty, is to continue that persistent task of helping in any legitimate way to formulate an intelligent public opinion upon which good government must depend for support. Greenhorns we may be, but a chance to combat ignorance, civic complacency, selfishness and greed, should not be denied us.

There are those in the adult generation who condemn democracy as impracticable, or as an established failure, and rest their case upon the argument that this aim can never be attained by any considerable percentage of a national population. They quote the low percentage of the adult population, who are sufficiently interested in public affairs to vote, (but the "blind" voting on referendum measures), the low order of political leadership they esteem, and the undoubted influence of sensational and misleading propaganda. These are damaging arguments, but it does not follow that the majority of citizens are incapable of greater civic interest and effort. Perhaps the remedy is more democracy and more education, not less. Herein lies a challenge to us, the youth, to give democracy a thorough trial by extending equality of opportunity for education to all citizens and by consciously aiming education at social understanding and effective citizenship.

Today, we must follow a completely new plan for development of worthy citizenship. An effective citizen should have the inclination to inform himself on public affairs and the knowledge of how to go about it. He should know something of the historical background of current problems so that he can understand the social forces at work and separate truth from fiction in his reasoning. He should recognize that good citizenship begins in his home community and take an intelligent interest in local planning. He should know something of the organization of government and party machinery and be able to make use of such agencies.

WE MUST recognize, however, that neither social understanding nor effective citizenship can come through knowledge alone. These can be fully developed only by some form of active participation. It is truthfully said of some men that "they know, but they do not understand". Our public school can contribute to actual understanding and activity by treating civic issues frankly. Unwarranted interference by individuals and groups to prevent frank discussion of controversial questions in schools should not be tolerated by the public. Furthermore, the school itself is a civic agency and can be organized as such, emphasizing the growth of our ability in self-government by permitting us freedom to attempt organized activity. Parents can be encouraged to participate freely in school affairs, co-operating with subordinate student undertakings. Far from feeling resentment or amusement at the desire of us students to "reorganize the world", adults should recognize clearly that we must reorganize it; that the course of social change must be guided by us, the future citizens.

SUCH open discussion and organized activity need not be confined to the classroom. Probably we need, as much as any other one thing, a few thousand active community organizations—groups engaged in community planning and definitely committed to the conduct of open forums, where those disposed to inform themselves can engage in free discussion of social questions. Out of such groups might emerge less prejudice and partisanship, less dogmatic opinion, and truer understanding of social issues. A further consequence should be an increase of ability to make a wise choice of leaders. The more complicated society becomes, the greater is the reliance which must be placed on leaders. To know the difference between real and mock leaders is an excellent test of "breadth of education" received.

This aim is indeed so challenging as to reach right to the heart of this whole discussion. Are our schools so cloistered and formal that they are turning out groups of civic incompetents unable to think or act on public questions?

The citizenship aims specified are not to be treated in education as though they were distinct aspects of life. They all represent inseparable interests of any normal, many-sided individual. The social ideal of citizenship is to guide all members of society toward wide interests and strong, self-directing personalities. Only free men can create a free society, and free men are those who have been loosed from bondage to ignorance, superstition, and fear.

A Toast

*Gotta say a toast
To the senior graduates;
Gotta stand and boast,
And listen to tut-tuts.*

*Gotta say I'm sad
'Cause they're graduating,
That I feel so glad
'Cause of their high rating.*

*Guess everyone goes through
The misery of a speech,
Standing up and gazing, too,
On laughing eyes that seem to reach*

*Grabbing at your tongue and pushing
So you cannot speak.
When you start to talking,
Only sound: a gentle squeak.*

*Then next day the teacher tells you
Just how terrible you were,
And that you must go thru'
Your speech again with her.*

*Then on that night of agony
You stand before the crowd;
And all your pent up misery
Comes down in one big cloud.*

*But, much to your amazement,
The words begin to flow
As evenly as if you meant
Each word you said just so.*

*And afterwards your friends
Tell you that you were swell,
And your teacher ends
By saying you did well.*

*And so, these lessons teach
It really isn't bad at all
To give a parting speech
To your seniors in the fall.*

*Were sons of our Mothers born to die
On an alien land midst filth and gore?
And did God create our souls to buy
A foreign cause on a distant shore?
Why be fuel for a dictator's flame,
Or a martyr for another's war?
We don't want disaster, death and shame;
God! Just give us peace forevermore!*

The Jasmine

*O tiny flower that hides all day
And throws your perfumes for winds to sway,
You help to make the tropic night
A fairy tale of great delight.
You always hide your little face,
Hoping there will be no trace,
But oh, such haunting perfumes do
Reveal your hiding place for you.
If you must cast your magic spell upon a world that doesn't care,
I hope that I'll be passing by to catch the wonder in the air.*

It uses new methods to get better results. And cheap utility service is like that too . . . it is as modern as today . . . as new as tomorrow. Modern education raises the mental standard; cheap utility service raises the "better living" standard. 1. When the teacher gives an assignment, take it down rapidly, as though you cant wait to begin studying.
2. Never close your book before the bell rings. This gives the interested impression.
3. Walk into class with a smile as though you had the air of having done your homework.
4. Raise your hand every time he starts to call on someone else. Then it will be too late to call on you, but he will still think you knew the answer.
5. When exam time comes, write anything you can think of whether it pertains to the question at hand or not.

Fourteen years is not so long when you look backward. In 1927 we printed your first annual and have continued to do so every year since.

A large number of your early graduates are now leaders in our professional and business life and are still listed as our friends and customers.

It has always been a pleasure for us to produce your annuals and some of our happiest memories hark back to the contacts that we have made with the faculty, sponsors and students of your wonderful school.

Nineteen forty has been no exception and we wish for this year's graduates the best of everything—all Miami Beach is proud of you.
